The BLM Airspace Information System remains the only government agency website that graphically plots ALL TFR'S at <http://airspace.blm.gov>, and it is done onto the most current charts available for navigation.

The DOD TFR viewer at <http://206.38.92.204/TFRN/viewer.htm> is online but does not map all TFR'S and they still maintain a large pool of "un-mappable TFR'S" that do include Wildland Fire TFR'S. Check the un-mappable TFR'S Link.

An additional FAA site at <http://www2.faa.gov/SPECIALNOTAMS/specialnotamlisting.htm> was supposed to graphically plot all TFR'S but they plot very few graphically.

The Charts on either the FAA or DOD system are not to be used for navigation! The BLM Airspace Information System Charts are the latest and most current available. When you print charts from the BLM Airspace Information System you have a copy of the most current chart available FOR NAVIGATION!

Look for the "AIRSPACE MANAGER" on the BLM Airspace Information System in OCTOBER.

This feature will allow you to reinforce airspace (you have already issued via NOTAM) onto the website, then have it displayed with the other graphical TFR NOTAM information. For example you could add a helicopter logging area, prescribed fire or even a Smokejumper practice jump. You will be able to access this under the BLM ADMIN BLM Admin button on the left side of the BLM Airspace Information System Page.
